Hello,

The Bar School is beginning bartending classes for individuals interested in getting a job as a bartender. Our classes are 24 hours total with 20 hours hands on “classroom training” plus a 4 hour online course for certification for licensing. Our training focuses on customer service, portion control and responsible beverage service, recipes, glassware, sanitation, pricing structure, brand identity and much more. The last day is mostly spent on making drinks and serving. Our goal is to have our students comfortable with working behind a bar as an entry level bartender but we are also looking for partners.

We would like to offer an optional “school to work” program that will give our students additional training in a real bar. We are seeking partners that may want to make their place available for the additional bar training with the intention it will lead to a permanent position. You will interview the person as if they are applying for a regular position to determine if they would fit what you look for in an employee. We would encourage you to allow the trainee to do as much of the work as they can. You would determine how long the training would be and what, if any, the training pay would be. You, as a partner, would be on a list of school to work establishments.

Benefits for the establishments would be:

- * Access to employees interested in bartending and the industry.
- * New employees that are already trained for your establishment.
- * Saving money on advertising and training for new bartenders.
- * Input into improving our program.

We think this can be a good program for both the students, the establishments, and the industry and we would appreciate your consideration.

If you have any questions or comments about this program, please call me at 785-1833.

Thank you.
